Note

The Honors Day Convocation ceremony (begun in 1960 as Academic Honors Day) was established as a celebration of academic excellence. The Convocation recognizes distinguished undergraduates from all disciplines, outstanding members of the various honor societies and Honors students to be graduated with General Honors. It is by invitation that students are invited to participate in the Convocation. The various colleges, schools, departments, and academic honor societies select their most outstanding graduating senior and the Honors Program acknowledges students who have fulfilled the requirements to be graduated with General Honors.

Scope and content

This collection contains assorted programs from the annual Honors Day Convocation ceremonies.
