Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

William Navarrete (b. 1968) is an exiled Cuban author and literary critic based in Paris, France. A prolific writer, Navarrete's most recent works include La gema de Cubagua(2011) and Lumbres veladas del Sur (2008). Aside from his literary pursuits, Navarrete has been an active supporter of Cuban political prisoners, working with the French government to raise awareness of Cubans' struggle and pressure the Castro regime for better treatment of its political prisoners.

Custodial history

Donor retains copyright until his death.

Scope and content

This collection contains manuscripts and notes for two of William Navarrete's most recent books, Lumbres velados del Sur (2008) and La gema de Cubagua (2011). The collection also features correspondence and articles relating to Navarrete's work with the French government and the Asociación por la Tercera República Cubana to facilitate the release of Cuban political prisoners and support the Bibliotecas Independientes de Cuba.
